

Mishriff eyeing Adayar revenge

■ Chris GOULDING

William Buick, while Appleby hopes to add to his prospects of remaining the season's leading trainer by running Master Of The Seas in the Q&A Stakes. "He's pleased us since his reappearance (third) in the Joel Stakes last month," said Appleby about the 2,000 Guineas runner-up. "He is mentally maturing."

■ Gary CARSON

"He ran well first time, he was very green, and he was impressive today. Hopefully he's as good as we think he is."

Season

The winner holds an entry for the Group One Vertem Futurity Trophy Stakes at Doncaster tomorrow week, although O'Brien feels he is likely to end his season and hold out for Derby trials next year. "There is the Eyrefield next week and he's still in the Vertem Futurity Trophy, but I wouldn't be surprised if that was him finished and we bring him back for a Derby trial early next year," he said.

"You'd be hoping he's a Derby-type of horse with Australia putting in good stamina. But whether he's up to that or not we'll see."

DERBY winner Adayar is set for a mouth-watering rematch with Mishriff in tomorrow's Qipco Champion Stakes at Ascot.

The pair last locked horns when Adayar came out on top after taking the King George VI And Queen Elizabeth Stakes at Ascot in July.

DONNACHA O'Brien could have a classic prospect on his hands in the shape of Curragh winner Sissoko.

The Australia colt was a six-length winner of the Frianstown Stud Irish EBF Maiden after starting at 5-1 under Gavin Ryan, showing a good turn of foot to easy pull away from 3-1 favourite Sun King and leave the rest of the field a further five and a half lengths behind.

A debut run at the same track in September saw him finish sixth of 15 runners, but this time he seemed to have overcome that initial greenness and was professional in victory.

"We always thought a lot of him," the trainer said. "He was actually one of my best early ones, but he just pulled a muscle and I had to leave him off until a few weeks ago."
