

I HEARD YOU

TOTO'S A PANTO DAME!

FORMULA ONE
by JONATHAN McEVROY

CHRISTIAN Horner called his title rival Toto Wolff a 'pantomime dame' and criticised him for suggesting that Lewis Hamilton's title duel with Max Verstappen may be determined by an unsporting crash. The Red Bull boss was reacting to Wolff, describing him as a 'protagonist in a pantomime' during a Sportsmail interview last week. Ahead of the Mexican Grand Prix, Horner retorted: 'Look, we all know that Toto has a lot to say but I was quite flattered to be called a protagonist. If you look at the definition of what it means. You need an antagonist to have a protagonist and one could say perhaps Toto fills that role pretty well. 'If it were a pantomime, maybe the pantomime dame role might suit him. But it is all about what goes on on the track and it is a great competition between the teams. 'It is no-holds-barred, it is pit-walls against pit-walls, drivers against drivers, engine suppliers against engine suppliers. It is fantastic and we are loving it. 'Occasionally you are going to get some flak thrown at you but you take it with a pinch of salt and sometimes even as a compliment.' That is all good knockabout stuff but the more serious issue at hand is Wolff's belief that Verstappen or Hamilton might do a 'Senna-Prost' by taking the other out in a last act of desperation. Horner added: 'I was disappointed to read comments condoning this. 'We want a fair fight. Any driver would want to win it on the track.'

EXCLUSIVE
By ISAAN KHAN
and PAUL NEWMAN

MICHAEL VAUGHAN was battling to save his reputation last night after former Yorkshire player Rana Naved ul-Hasan supported Azeem Rafiq's claim that the ex-England captain made a racist comment towards Asian players in 2009.

Vaughan was later stood down from Monday's Testers and Vaughan Show on BBC Radio 5 Live.

All-rounder Naved played for the county in the 2008-09 season and claims that he was on the field when Vaughan allegedly told a group of Yorkshire's British Asian stars - said to include Rafiq, Adil Rashid and Ajmal Shahzad - "Too many of you lot, we need to do something about it".

Vaughan (above) completely and categorically denied the accusations on Thursday in his Daily Telegraph column.

In the article he had described reading the allegations that had been made about him as like being struck over the head with a brick.

The differing versions of events mean it is still not known what exactly occurred. But in an exclusive interview with Sportsmail, Naved, now 43, expressed 'shock' at the former England captain's denial and claimed there are 'lots of racists at Yorkshire'.

Naved said: 'Yes, yes, it's true but he (Vaughan) has denied it.

++ Former England captain stood down from radio show

I'm very shocked about that, it's true what Rafiq has alleged. He (Vaughan) was there. I was there and he used those words and he's denied it. He definitely said it, I'm sure. I was shocked - why is he denying these things?

'He was a senior player who played for England and he's a very responsible man, but he's denying it. Rafiq is right. That's why I'm backing him, he's right. I'm not thinking, "Oh I'm Asian, Rafiq's also Asian so I'll back him". No - I'm telling you the truth.'

The former Pakistan star was asked why he did not complain immediately and added: 'I did nothing at the time because I was a professional player then. As Muslims, we just try and play cricket and be fair. I'm reacting now because it's a true story and he's denied it.

'He was a senior player at the time, captain or vice-captain as well and we respect the senior people. That's why I ignored it. Those words are not good for us, especially Asian people.'

Sportsmail revealed this week that Yorkshire batsman Gary Ballance was the player who had repeatedly called Rafiq a 'Paki', which all came to light when parts of Yorkshire's report into Rafiq's allegations of racism at the county came out.

Naved also opened up about his experience at Yorkshire, where he claimed to have suffered racism and was 'tortured in every sense'. 'I was in Scarborough and you can't imagine the tiny room they gave me that was like the size of one bed,' he said. 'They gave me the room because I wasn't performing well. I showed that room to Ajmal Shahzad. I said: "Look, this is my room. I'm a pro player".'

'If you're performing well they treat you like a hero. If you don't, they torture you in every sense - in facilities, your transport. There are a lot of people there who are racist and don't like Asian people.'

Yesterday, Vaughan said: 'We're in different times. I've done my piece (in the Telegraph) and I stand by what I say. I've never said anything racist in my life. I have nothing to hide. The "you lot" comment never happened.'
