

To whom it may concern,

I submit this new planning application for retention and alteration of a now existing extension to my home. The intention of this small extension is to provide a better quality of life for my wife and two sons and to make better use of an area heavily shaded by large trees belonging to our neighbours.

We feel we have addressed all of the reasons given for refusal to our initial application and note that there had been no objections to the build submitted by third parties at that time.

Yours hopefully,

Stephen Maher.

A handwritten signature in dark ink, appearing to read 'Stephen Maher', written in a cursive style.