

TRY-DAY... Fryday (left) and Reilly in training

FRYDAY FEELING

By WILL JENNINGS

NICHOLA FRYDAY reckons her green machine KO'ing Wales in Dublin would get Ireland's "fresh" new era off to a flier.

The Offaly ace, 26, is captain for the first time in today's TikTok Women's Six Nations opener against Wales at the RDS Arena.

Ireland are chasing their first Championship title since 2016. And second row Fryday, who welcomes debutants Aoib-heann Reilly, Christy Haney and Anna McGann into the squad, said: "It is a fresh start for the team."

"We're really looking forward to getting out there, implementing the hard work we've done over the last number of weeks and showcasing ourselves on the Test stage. It is a privilege to lead this group of players.

"We are all incredibly excited to get to work."

Wales are boosted by the return of Kayleigh Powell. The full-back has not featured since last year's event due to injuries.

URC ACTION

FIRSTY WORK

Friendly fire from get-go

ANDY FRIEND says he will know from the first collision whether Connacht are up to the task of defeating Leinster.

The provinces clash at The Sportsground tonight in the URC. It will be the first of three meetings in four weeks between the sides but this clash will bear little resemblance to when they face off twice next month in the Champions Cup. Friend could see a repeat of the superb displays in victories over Scarlets and Stormers, or witness another tough night like when they went down 56-8 to Edinburgh last time out.

The head coach (right) said: "Pretty much from the kick-off, I reckon that first collision, you'll be able to tell whether we're on or not on."

"What I want to see is if we do carry, that we carry with really good intent. If you see those in the first 30 seconds it'll be a good day. If you don't, it'll be a long 80 minutes. That's what happened against Edinburgh."

Both sides will be without their frontline Irish internationals and Friend added: "The first game is in the URC, so all we're focusing on at the moment is this Saturday and what we believe Leinster will deliver, and the threats we have to try contain, and how we think we can use our strengths to get through them.

"It'll be a very different Leinster team next time because they'll have a lot of internationals back."

Three of the four Leinster players who Connacht announced recently would be joining them in the summer will feature this weekend.

Loosehead Peter Dooley will start while Josh Murphy and David Hawkshaw are on the bench - winger Adam Byrne is the fourth.

Friend said: "That's footie, isn't it? Come July, we'll welcome them to the Sportsground, but in the meantime they're opposition."

CONNACHT: T O'Halloran, J Poreh, T Farrell, I Daly, O McUlry, J Carty, K Marmion, D Buckley, D Heffernan, J Aungler, O Dowling, N Murray, C Prendergast, C Oliver, J Butler. Reps: J Murphy, M Burke, G McGrath, U Dillane, P Royle, C Blada, S Arnold, D Kilgallen. LEINSTER: J O'Brien, J O'Brien, J Osborne, C Frawley, R O'Loughlin, R Byrne, I McGrath, P Dooley, J Tracy, M Alaalatoa, R Molony, J McCarthy, R Ruddock, S Penny, M Deegan. Reps: S Cronin, F Byrne, T Clarkson, J Murphy, M Moloney, N McCarthy, D Hawkshaw, C Cosgrove.
