F1 NOT A HOWL LOT BETTER

TOTO'S NOT CRYING WOLFF has already written off Lewis Hamilton's chances at this weekend's Australian Grand Prix and has again warned "there won't be a magic fix" for his team's troubles.

IN REVERSE: Lewis Hamilton's chances at the Australian Grand Prix don't look good

The chronic under-performance of the Mercedes cars has been the talk of the F1 paddock in the opening weeks of the season. Hamilton and George Russell have admitted the Ferraris and Red Bulls could disappear into the distance - in terms of the drivers and constructors' championships - before Mercedes get their act together.

Significant There had been rumours of new parts for the misfiring Silver Arrows - but, whatever arrives in Melbourne over the next few days, Wolff does not expect a significant upturn in performance. The Mercedes team principal said: "There won't be a magic fix for this next race weekend."

TOTO'S NOT CRYING WOLFF, HE MEANS IT

Andy DUNN when a team really shows its true spirit." "Lewis and George are making an important contribution to the overall effort, providing feedback, spending time in the simulator and working together to help push us forward."

We are in a learning race and the first two weekends have shown we still have plenty to learn. At the moment, our track performance is not meeting our expectations, but everyone at Brackley and Brixworth is focused on understanding the problems and finding the right solutions.

DESpondent: Toto Wolff

Hamilton and Russell have been at the Brackley factory, trying to find solutions to problems that saw the seven-times world champion finish 10th in Saudi Arabia and his British teammate fifth. In his season-opener in Bahrain, they had managed a third and fourth, but only after the late retirements of the Red Bulls of world champion Max Verstappen and Sergio Perez. "We're pushing to steadily bring gains over the

Passionate The third race of the 2022 schedule is at Albert Park in Melbourne, where the first race of 2020 was scheduled to take place until Covid forced a late cancellation. "Now we head back to Melbourne for the first time since 2020 and will be racing in Australia for the first time in three years - that's too long for a city and country that are so passionate about F1," Wolff said. "We're looking forward to seeing the fans and the new track layout, which promises more overtaking opportunities and faster lap times."

BOSS HEADLINES MONDELLO

THE 2022 Digital Motorsport Irish Championship Circuit Racing (ICCR) series takes to the track at Mondello Park on Saturday for round one, also round two of the Formula Vee championship.

John KENNY Formula Sheane Facing added: "We all owe so much to David, he has selflessly helped so many people to get a start in racing and helped to keep so many more going we may never know the true extent of his contribution to Irish Motorsport."

There is still no premier single series racing class and the Formula Ford series shows no sign of returning yet, but circuit racing has seen an increase in grids across all its other series. Formula Vee and Formula Sheane headline Saturday's programme, sadly without Sheane creator David Sheane (inset) who passed away this week.

There will also be decent grids for Sunday's Fiesta Zetec and ST Championship races, and Michael Barrable is back to defend his title. Almost 40 drivers have already registered. Meanwhile, the Motorsport Ireland Irish Forest Rally Championship returns next Sunday, with the Carrick-on-Suir based Willie Loughman Forestry Rally the second round of the series.

A giant of Irish Motorsport, David brought Formula Vee to Ireland and has launched the careers of so many drivers past and present," said a Mondello Park statement. "In addition, Sheane built the cars we use in our Formula Race Thrill here at Mondello Park so over the years thousands of people have enjoyed his innovation and engineering for which he'll be remembered."

It will be a bittersweet return as in the Killybeggs Forest Rally on February 20th, a tragic accident saw competitor Eoin McCarthy die and there will be a commemoration for him. After round one, Desi Henry leads, ahead of Sam Moffett and Jordan Hone. Neither Henry nor Moffett are competing on Sunday, while Hane (Ford Fiesta R5)

is seeded two behind the Skoda Fabia of Patrick O'Brien, with Niall McCullough at three in his Ford Fiesta Rally 2 machine. The rally will comprise six forest stages with two service parks. The town centre business park will be the central hub.

Elsewhere, Dubliner Derek Tohill, the British Rallycross Champion, returns to the series next month in his Ford Fiesta Supercar. He contested only his second full season in the British Rallycross Championship 5 Nations Trophy last year and after a hugely-competitive campaign, which included four wins, he secured the title by just two points.

The Fiesta Supercar, which together with driver Tohill has already won the opening two rounds of the Irish Rallycross Championship this year, will be adorned with the GB1 number, awarded to the winner of the British crown each year, for its return to Lydden Hill next month on April 16-18. Tohill joins a growing grid of new and returning Supercar contenders for the Lydden Hill weekend, before 5 Nations BRX then visits some of the best rallycross venues in Western Europe.
