

Mystic Meg

ARIES March 21 – April 21

Your way of showing others they are valued, while still sticking up for yourself, makes you the one to watch at work. Saturn's steady hand keeps friendships on an even keel and a big-ticket buy can be shared more ways than you think. Luck starts with a morning message – and leads to an evening decision.

TAURUS April 22 – May 21

Instead of nagging or repeating family requests, Mercury helps you find fun ways to get your message across. But you can also set limits and this time refuse to loosen them. Neptune's caring commitment brings a group close again after a few weeks apart – and yes, a face you already like can become one you love.

GEMINI May 22 – June 21

The fun part of your personality comes to the fore as the moon encourages a lightness of touch. Choosing your battles is the key to getting what you want at work and at home. In romance terms, Venus makes you a hot passion prospect with the kind of attention to detail that wins over even the most reluctant heart.

CANCER June 22 – July 23

Star focus on your family zone is a reminder you have waited long enough for a green light. This may be your moment to go ahead regardless. With Mercury's mental strength in your sign, you combine determination with insight. As for passion, Venus celebrates the unexpected.

LEO July 24 – August 23

You are a boundary-breaking combination of Mars drive and Mercury understanding. Motives and moves that might have felt like a mystery yesterday seem crystal-clear now. Above all, listen to that inner voice. Lucky numbers appear in threes and a musical trio plays the perfect passion soundtrack.

VIRGO August 24 – September 23

You have such a strong love sector as the moon and Venus grow close. Words that need saying or hearing can happen at last. You are far ahead in a "B" romance race and now you see it for yourself. A travel change can happen when you approach from a new direction, as Mars builds confidence to the max.

LIBRA September 24 – October 23

Really seeing and appreciating your own talents is a key part of making today so emotionally rewarding. With Saturn's management style, you oversee every project or personal bond with a calm, kind approach. This helps people co-operate. Luck circles a list of five "F" names.

SCORPIO October 24 – November 22

Mars takes a no-nonsense stand in your zone of contracts and contacts, making this your moment to stand up and say what you really want. A time of second-guessing others is over. If you feel love has fallen into a routine, surprising a partner changes that. If you are single, a jokey Capricorn can make you smile.

SAGITTARIUS November 23 – December 22

You have extra Mars energy but focusing it in the right direction is the key. Don't waste any more time on people or projects that drain you without giving anything back. Let your heart guide you to the best in health, wealth and love. Single? Someone in a group you joined at the last minute can be The One.

CAPRICORN December 23 – January 20

Mercury is in your marriage zone and even if at first it feels unromantic to discuss details of love in practical terms, this framework can be what helps feelings fly. So yes, spend time working out who will do what to find a fairer way to be together. Single? A job bringing creative people together is a key clue.

AQUARIUS January 21 – February 19

As the moon and sun square up over a work choice, you may find yourself pulled in very different directions. Just remember the difference between doing what is right for you and trying to keep everyone else happy. The first one is the right one for today. Love is fun and flirty, with unexpected "S" suggestions.

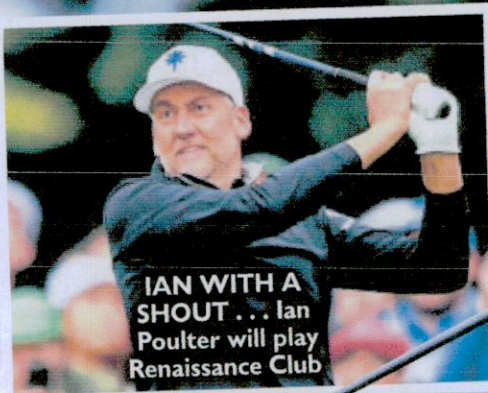

PISCES February 20 – March 20

If you have a tendency to rush through important words, whether written or spoken, force yourself to slow down and give them space and time. If you are in love, loyalty levels may feel different but you can find a simple fix by saying what you will and won't accept. Single? Listen out for a distinctive laugh.

GOLF SCOTTISH OPEN

IAN WITH A SHOUT . . . Ian Poulter will play Renaissance Club

COMING OUT SWINGING . . . Justin Thomas hopes to beat a LIV rebel this weekend

JT LIVs for a challenge THOMAS TO KO REBELS

JUSTIN THOMAS admits winning the Scottish Open would be made sweeter if it came at the expense of one of the LIV rebels.

DP World Tour players who contested the first Saudi breakaway event at Centurion Club last month were fined £100,000 and banned from the Renaissance Club this weekend but successfully appealed the sanctions on Monday.

Ian Poulter, Justin Harding, Adrian Otaegui and Branden Grace were then added to the field.

Asked about the possibility of playing with one this weekend, US PGA champion Thomas said: "If I know all four of them, then it will be fine. It will be easy."

"But even if I don't, I don't necessarily think we're going to be having any, like, gamesmanship or needling each other out there."

"At the end of the day, they are here for the same reason we are and that's just trying to play well and give yourself an opportunity to win the Scottish Open."

"If it so happens that it comes to that point and you have an opportunity to beat one of them to win the tournament, it might be a little better, but I'm sure they would say the same thing."

Thomas warmed up for the event with a golfing tour of Ireland last weekend, that included rounds at Lahinch and Tralee Golf Clubs before playing the JP McManus Pro-Am at Adare Manor.

He and Rory McIlroy (below) have emerged as the most prominent supporters of the PGA Tour in its battle against the rival circuit.

But the two-time Major winner is keen to concentrate on his game ahead of next week's 150th Open Championship at St Andrews.

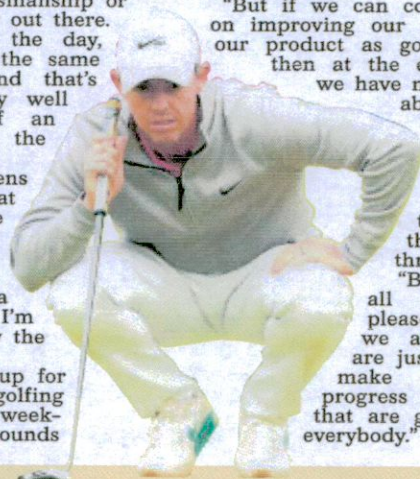

The American said: "I'll be the first to say I've gotten wrapped up emotionally from time to time, and I'm allowed to do that."

"I'm passionate about it and I feel a certain way. But at the end of the day, myself and others, first and foremost, need to focus on playing good golf because that's the number one priority."

"But if we can continue to focus on improving our product, getting our product as good as possible, then at the end of the day we have nothing to worry about."

"You never know what's going to happen in terms of other entities or other things being thrown out there."

"But I think we're all obviously very pleased with where we are at and we are just continuing to make strides and progress and changes that are going to benefit everybody."
