RUGBY CONAN SETS SIGHTS ON FRANCE

AGAINST THE CLOCK

JACK Conan predicts the next year will be the most important of his rugby career as he strives to break back into the Ireland starting lineup for France 2023.

Conan recently turned 30 and, while in Bali on the eve of his birthday, he reflected on a whirlwind last decade in blue and green.

"I wasn't dealing with it too well," the Grand Slam and Champions Cup winner confessed. "I was shocked that the last 10 years had gone as (quickly as) they had!

enough given the sport we're in and you always want more.

"So I'm eager to add to the things I've accomplished so far, be that individually or as a collective with Leinster, Ireland and other teams."

That eagerness is fuelled by an unforgettable summer in New Zealand that culminated in a first-ever Ireland tour series victory there - but nevertheless brought some personal disappointment.

The No.8 found himself on the bench for all five of Ireland's games on the tour.

Asked

"But, look, had you asked me 10 years ago what I wanted to achieve in that time and showed me what I have done I would have been pretty happy."

"There are a lot of things in there that I never thought I would get that chance to do, so I do feel incredibly privileged and grateful for the opportunities that I have had over the last few years.

"In saying that, as you grow as a rugby player and as a person it's never really process.

"At the end of the day I was just happy to be there and to be involved," he said.

"It's something that even when you retire, you'll look back on to say you were part of that first ever Irish team to go down there and win a Test and then win a series."

"Grateful but I think I left a little bit out there as well.

"It's constant ups and downs and the highs and lows of it all, it's never plain sailing, never a straight path.

"You can't always foresee the junctions in the road and the obstacles either way. You have to embrace them."

Tinged

At club level, too, there was an exciting campaign tinged with regret at the end as Leinster lost the Champions Cup final and in the URC semi-finals, leaving them trophy-less for the first time in five years.

The Blues responded the last time by winning the double in 2018.

"Winning makes you weak to some degree," he argued. "And now that bit of despair drives the desire massively. In 2017, when we came back after that season, we spoke about it as the 'almost' year."

"So it definitely makes lads a lot hungrier, and the coaches - not that you could ever question people in here resting on their laurels."

"There's a constant desire to grow but we are definitely hungrier than we've been for a long time after going a season without any silverware."

KYR' WE GO AS ANDY LOOKS AHEAD

ANDY Kyriacou is keen for Munster to quickly get over last weekend's URC season-opening loss in Cardiff, with a host of Ireland stars available for Saturday's trip to the Dragons.

"We all want this Munster pack to move on and move forward, get that fear factor accelerate that as much as we can. It might take a period of time, we don't know how long that will be.

Improving

"But we just keep going after our performance in training and improving that."

about it again," he insisted.

"Things are new to the lads and we are training in a completely different way, there is going to be an adaptation period."

"It's on all of us, players and coaches, to try and

After a stint as a coach for Russia's national side alongside his role at Sale, followed by a stint in Nottingham, Kyriacou (39) returned to Munster and had been working with the academy until Graham Rowntree got the nod for the head coach role.
