winner (right) will form a key part of the American efforts to win away for the first time in 30 years. 'He will be a part of this team in some capacity — he already is, frankly,' said Johnson. 'I can't put this mildly: he loves the Ryder Cup. He has made it a priority. He's gone through some things as of late that make it difficult. But he wants to be a part of it as best he can. He's very much going to be relied upon. He is very calculated when it comes to these team events. He puts a lot of energy and effort into them, whether it's phone calls, FaceTime, or just text messages for those he hasn't been at... I will rely upon him, and not only me but some of the players. He's very much a part of

Team USA. He is extremely passionate about the Ryder Cup.' European captain Luke Donald, appearing with Johnson at their first joint press conference, said his team face an uphill battle, despite not losing at home since 1993, adding: 'I think we will be underdogs.'
