

Golden boy: Rhys McClenaghan with his mother Tracy and girlfriend Emily Carr yesterday

World is not enough for Rhys

By AOIFE ENGLISH

IRELAND'S newest world champion Rhys McClenaghan is to take a well-deserved break before getting back to work on his Olympic ambitions. The Co Down man arrived back to a hero's welcome from friends, family and fans in Dublin Airport yesterday after his ground-breaking win in the pommel horse discipline at the World Championships in Liverpool on Saturday. 'I'll try to switch off from gymnastics, enjoy the success I've just had and in a couple of weeks come back probably hungrier than ever,' McClenaghan said.

After a disappointing result at the Tokyo Olympics last summer, the 23-year-old aims to come back better than ever in Paris in two years' time. 'I am now a world champion and that's going to be a force to be reckoned with other gymnasts,' he said. 'It sets a really exciting precedent for the future.'

That Olympic gold medal is the only one missing from my collection now, so my eyes are on that. 'The support of the Irish fans has just been incredible, the support out there in Liverpool was also incredible, seeing all the Irish flags around the arena was amazing,' added McClenaghan.
